New Staff Member at the Maine Women's Lobby

Belfast Resident, Kim Fleming, Joins Organization Working for Women and Girls

(Augusta) Kim Fleming joined the Maine Women's Lobby and its sister organization, the Maine Women's Policy Center, as Program Assistant where she provides membership, communications, fundraising, research, and general board, staff, and donor support for both organizations.

Kim is a 2003 graduate of the University of Southern Maine with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science. She brings over nine years of experience in the nonprofit development arena, most recently from the Penobscot Marine Museum where she served as Development and Marketing Coordinator.

"We are delighted to welcome Kim to the Maine Women's Lobby team," said Sarah Standiford, Executive Director of the Maine Women's Lobby. "Her extensive experience in nonprofit development, combined with her obvious commitment to our mission of equal opportunity for women, made her the ideal candidate. She has joined a team of highly skilled, thoughtful, and devoted women here in Augusta."

Kim lives in Belfast, Maine with her husband, Mark Bulmer, and their 19-month-old son, Benjamin. She is an active member of her community as a strong advocate for women's rights, political equality, the Maine coastal preservation, and the arts.

If you would like to contact Kim Fleming regarding the mission of or advocacy opportunities at the Maine Women's Lobby, she can be reached at 207.622.0851, ext. 25, and kfleming@mainewomen.org.

The Maine Women's Lobby is a non-partisan, nonprofit, membership organization working since 1978 to increase opportunities for women and girls through advocacy and legislative action.
